RICK & PETERS.

The District Court has six indictments on its calendar, three of these being against Ah Sun, Ah Chung and Ah Sam for burglary, and three against Patrick McKenna, two of these being for arson and one for assault with a deadly weapon. The proceedings of the Court are characterized by a remarkable degree of promptness, and a great deal of business has already been disposed of.

The Chinese New Year still continues, and the residents of that part of Carson known as Chinatown are daily keeping open houses, and are dispensing nuts and tea and other refreshments to the visitors who chance to call. It is a general merrymaking festival among the Celestials, and the same is enjoyed by them all.

Bienvenu Club.

The following is the programme of the reception on Tuesday evening. It was printed on elegantly tinted paper, and was fashioned in the shape of an envelope. The dances were as follows: Grand March, Bienvenu; Lancers, National Guard; Polka, Kutschke; Parisienne, Beau Monde; Schottische, Happy Hotentots; Quadrille, (basket), Busy Bee; Waltz, Bachelor's Fancy; Neapolitane, Chariot; Mazurka, Autumn Leaves; Quadrille, Old Folk's Preference; Newport, Flirtation; Royal Horse Guards, Imperial; Schottische, Mason's Favorite; Waltz Lancers, La Belle Helene; Esmeralda, L'Orion; Prairie Queen, Bivouac; Galop, Vivace; Glide, Quadrille, The Hub; Redowa, Deux Esprits; Virginia Reel, Light of other days; Medley, Home Sweet Home. This programme was carried out to the letter, and a more acceptable one could not have been offered. In short in every part of the reception, the arrangements were carried out in an admirable way, and the guests were entirely devoted to their own enjoyment, and that of their friends. The supper had been prepared with a great deal of taste and care, the decorations of the hall were admirable in their style, and the singing of the birds in their cages, which were hung around the hall, lent a pleasing effect to the entertainment in general. Grace and beauty, style and taste, swallow tails and silks, lavender kids and Brussels lace, satin slippers and button hole bouquets, merry chatting and peals of laughter, music and dancing, these predominated at the party, and it was three o'clock in the morning before the medley had been played, before the last couple had left the floor, and before this brilliant party of the Bienvenu Club had ended.

We glean from the Journal the following particulars of the death of Mrs. Johnson, the lady who perished by the burning of Chamberlain's hotel in Reno: "She occupied the northeast corner room in the attic, in the end where the fire commenced. It did not reach her room for over an hour after it started. As near as can be judged she had arisen and dressed herself, and while doing so the smoke, which at that time filled the upper story, so confused her that she could not find the door. When the alarm was given she cried piteously for a helping hand. Adam Clark succeeded in reaching her door and called to her to 'come here.' 'Which way? which way?' she frantically asked and began groping for him on her hands and knees. Nearly overpowered he was compelled to retreat without her, and only escaped by crawling on his hands and knees half the length of the hotel to the stairway, and the poor woman was left to her horrible fate. Many other attempts were made to save her but all were futile, for the remorseless flames had marked her for its victim, and it had to be so. Had she but have broken open her window she could have had all the air necessary, and even made her escape by dropping from the window to the porch and shed only a few feet below. But she did not think of this and was soon suffocated. She was found yesterday morning at 6:30 under a pile of debris. She was lying face downward near the door. Her face and hair were not burned much, but the expression on her face shows the horrors of the death she died. Her legs were badly burned, and other portions of her body blistered. Mrs. Johnson was a Swede by birth, about 27 years of age and married."

We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to the third annual ball of Truckee Division No. 108, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. This ball will be a grand one of its kind, and will be given on Thursday evening, February 22, in Gladding's Hall, Wadsworth. On presentation of a ball ticket which will cost $5, a half-fare railroad ticket may be purchased. These ball tickets can be obtained from M. B. Ames, C. Garsuch, Harry Ryan, A. M. Foulks and W. S. McKean, engineers on the V. & T. R. R. Church & Jones will furnish the music for the occasion.

The Footlight is responsible for the following pun on our State Treasurer's name: "In a hasty glance through our State Treasurer's report, we noticed the fact that out of the $2,000 allowed that official for extra clerk hire, more than one-half had been returned to the Treasury unexpended. The San Francisco Call cites this as an anomaly without parallel in the history of office holding. It would be something 'passing strange' in the history of a California official, but in Nevada it is only one of the evidences of our good Schooling."

This evening the favorite Irish Comedian and Vocalist, Mr. J. M. Ward, supported by Laura S. Church and a full dramatic company, will appear for the first time in Carson, and the play will be the great four act drama entitled, The Winning Hand, or the Lone House on the Hook. The party come will be recommended, and their appearance will be greeted by a large and appreciative audience.

A first-class opera troupe is announced for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week, in Carson. It is the same troupe which is having such a brilliant reception in Virginia, and the amusement seekers of Carson are to be congratulated on having such a rare treat in store. On the first evening Wallace's Maritana will be rendered; in the second evening Plotow's Martha, and on the third evening Leocoe's celebrated Giora. The acting, the singing, the music and the costumes will be of the most brilliant kind, and everyone should procure a seat at the earliest opportunity.

The mining Superintendents and their friends were again in Carson yesterday, and were actively at work in the interests of their proposed bill. Among the number were to be noticed District Attorney Lindsay, Col. Fair, Dan Haugh and a host of others, and the lobbies and halls at the Capitol were crowded with the numerous spectators to the proceedings.

There were two very noticeable entertainments in the city last evening, viz: the Arlington Social at the Arlington House, and the Valentine Ball at the Theater. Both were well attended, and the dancing was kept up to a late hour.
